COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY NOV. 27, 1912.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

John N. Conover Loses His Barn, Fourteen Head of Stock, Corn, Wheat, Etc.

LOSS FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Last Sunday morning, about 2 o'clock, the large stock barn, owned by Mr. John N. Conover, who lives a short distance from Columbia, was consumed by fire. There were fourteen head of mules and horses, one cow and one hog, corn, wheat, hay, one buggy, farming implements burned. The loss is estimated to be about four thousand dollars, no insurance.

The fire was first discovered by Mr. Conover, but it was in such headway the barn could not be reached to turn out the stock.

This fire should be a warning to persons who do not carry insurance.

Don't Let the Light of Your Life Go Out.

Don't let the light of your life go out. Though the flame seems burning low, Just trim up the wick and add more oil.

And brighter the light will glow.

Don't let the light of your life go out. When dark clouds obscure the sun, They soon will lift and reveal the rift. Or will pass off one by one.

Don't let the light of your life go out. Though afflictions do arise: There's never a pain that hides no gain.

For the man who only tries.

Don't let the light of your life go out. With its song a minor strain, Jog it along and the major tone Will blend with the music again.

Don't let the light of your life go out. When the tempests do arise. Just trim up the wick and add more oil.

There's a way for the man who tries.

Robert Lee Campbell.

The Largest Log Known Here.

The largest log that ever went out of Adair county was hauled to Campbellsville last week by J. N. Atwell, Vester Deal and John Young. The tree was cut on a farm owned by one of the Tupman boys, lying on Green river. The cut hauled weighed 22,083 pounds and contained 22,028 feet of lumber. It was hauled by twelve horses, hooked to an old Hickory wagon bought by Mr. Atwell from the Buchanan Lyon Company, Campbellsville. The cut belonged to Mr. Whitney, the well-known lumber man. The team and its load was a great attraction as it entered Campbellsville and also to many people while en route.

Russell County Death.

Mr. Joseph W. Jackman, who was seventy-eight years old, died at his late home, near Creelsboro, last Thursday. He had been afflicted with dropsy for some time. A few days before his death he walked to his barn, and while there he made a misstep and fell, which hastened his death.

He was buried Friday at the Jackman graveyard, near Denmark.

This paper understands, from enquiry, that many farmers in Adair county use only from seventy-five to one hundred pounds of fertilizer to the acre for corn. A few nights ago we overheard some farmers, at the Hancock Hotel, who live in Western Kentucky, discussing corn growing, telling how many barrels were grown to the acre in their section, which was fully double the yield here. "How is it done?" some enquired. "By using fertilizers." Our farmers in Western Kentucky use two hundred pounds to the acre, and if it was done here, you would see a great difference in the production.

Miss Ethel Jackman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackman, former residents of Columbia, was recently married near Tampa, Fla., to F. G. Sanford. The paper from which this notice is made states that both the bride and groom are popular young people of Tampa.

I have a three year old mare, blemished, works and drives well, perfectly safe. Will exchange her for pork or will sell.

No Fees for Sheriffs From School Tax.

Suit probably will be instituted against county Sheriffs who have been taking fees out of school taxes collected by them. Inspectors have reported to the Department of Education that this practice is not uncommon and Superintendent Barksdale Hamlett believes several thousands of dollars can be recovered for the use of the State school fund. The sheriff is entitled to 10 per cent. of the first $5,000 he collects and 4 per cent. of the balance; but the Court of Appeals has held that none of this may come off the school tax, which must be turned in intact, and the Sheriff must take his fee out of the county funds. It is reported that in some counties the school fund is being made the "goat" and the Sheriffs are taking all of the first 10 per cent. out of it, the county fund profiting thereby.

All parties owing me accounts will kindly call and settle early as possible, as I have some important obligations to meet on the first of December.

Mrs. Alice Jackman Dead.

Mrs. Alice Jackman, widow of the late Dr. H. C. Jackman, died in an infirmary at Shelbyville, Ind., last Monday. The remains were expected here last night, en route for her home, Creelsboro. The deceased was a daughter of Berryman Holt, deceased, and was a first cousin of Mrs. J. F. Montgomery, this place. Mrs. Jackman had been in the infirmary about one week before the end came.

Prof. Moss informs the News that the attendance at the Lindsey-Wilson this year has been very gratifying, and that the management is assured of pupils by the score after Christmas. Arrangements have been made to take care of all who desire to board at the dormitories, and there will be teachers sufficient to keep all the pupils busy with their books. The health of the school has been unusually good.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by Paul Drug Co.

Resolutions.

Whereas, In the death of our sister, Mrs. Sallie Reed, the Aid Society of the Christian Church, has lost a faithful member.

Whereas: The church has lost a loyal devoted member, who was always in her place at the prayer-meetings and all church services, whenever able to attend such services.

Whereas: Her family has given up a loving wife, mother, daughter and sister, in which relations she was faithful until death.

Be it resolved, that the Aid Society recognize her faithfulness and readiness to answer the call to enter eternity, because of preparation she had made in health and strength for such a moment; having lived an earnest christian life in her daily affairs.

Be it also resolved: That while we miss her in our gatherings of the society and the services of God's house, we sorrow not as those who have no hope and in love we bow unto the Heavenly Father, who has taken her to Himself, who doeth all things well; and that we say Thy will be done.

Be it further resolved: That we extend to her bereaved family our sincerest sympathy and point them, for comfort and hope, to her God and Father and Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the book of records of the society; a copy be given the bereaved family and a copy be published in the Adair County News.

Respectfully submitted.

The Greensburg Loose Leaf Market.

A great many farmers of Adair county are interested in the Loose Leaf Tobacco House which has been established at Greensburg, and which had its first public sale Thursday of last week. There were buyers present from Louisville and from other points in Kentucky, and during the day the house presented a lively scene, bidding being spirited. There were buyers for every grade of tobacco, hence there is no doubt but there will be demand for every quality of the weed shipped to this house.

Adair, Russell, Taylor, Larue, Metcalfe and Green counties were all represented at the sale, and about 75,000 pounds of tobacco were sold at prices ranging from $3.40 to $16.75.

This sale demonstrates that at all future sales there will be a full corps of buyers, including the American Tobacco Company, exporters, different manufacturers and speculators. It was freely admitted by tobacco men from Louisville that the Greensburg market was fully up to that of the Falls City; there was no shipping margin.

The crowd who attended the sale and who were in Greensburg was estimated at three thousand.

The sales will again open as soon as there is a general season for stripping and handling.

Figg'd Train With Shirt

Fearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved in from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, head back and kidneys were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition but four bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at Paul Drug Co.

Mr. Geo. E. Wilson, who was in Louisville last week, brings a favorable report concerning the condition of Mr. L. E. Young, the Jeweler of this place who underwent an operation at St. Joseph's Infirmary two weeks ago. Mr. Wilson called to see Mr. Young, finding him very cheerful—did not seem to be suffering in the least. The surgeon, who operated, states that in a few months Mr. Young will have proper use of his limbs, and will walk straight. This will be gratifying news to Mr. Young's relatives and friends in Adair county.

A few days ago, friends and neighbors of Mr. I. C. Thomas, Font Hill, gathered and gave him a birthday dinner, it being his seventieth birthday. The occasion was highly enjoyable. His friends trust that he may live to see many more birthdays.

Next Monday will be county court, the last for 1912.

James Griffin Dead.

The subject of this notice lived near the Monument, on the Campbellsville pike, and in Taylor county. The end came to his earthly career last Wednesday night. He was eighty-two years old, and from a youth up had been a good citizen, respected by all his neighbors.

The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in the presence of many friends.

He was well known to a great many Adair county people.

A Good Farm for Sale.

I will on Monday, the 2nd day of December, 1912, at the premises, sell at public sale, to the best and highest bidder, the land of the late B. E. Philpott, which lies in Washes Bottom on Chamberland river in Chamberland county, Ky., consisting of about 250 acres of river bottom land in cultivation—is well watered and well adapted to grain, grass and stock raising, also about 215 acres of timber land. Terms one-half cash and balance in one year. Any one wishing more information will call on or write, J. B. Philpott, Executor.

Arat. Ky.

Our readers will remember that last week we published an item telling how Miss Gladys Myers, of Greensburg, Pa., had accidentally shot and killed her mother, supposing her to be a robber. The young lady and her mother were en route to a city to purchase the former's wedding outfit, and the mother was killed just as she was getting into the berth occupied by the daughter. Since the publication of the sad accident we learn that the young ladies affianced is a nephew of Rev. J. R. Crawford, of this place.

Miss Mabel Atkins entertained a party of young people last Friday night, in honor of Miss Laura Howard, of Russellville, and Miss Mollie Flowers, of Gradyville. Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable evening spent.

We are requested by the postmaster at this place, Mr. W. A. Coffey, to state that there has been no change in the arrival and departure of mails between Columbia and Campbellsville. If the mail should arrive earlier than the schedule time it will be promptly opened.

Road Building.

Mr. J. N. Coffey, County Road Engineer, has just returned from Casey's Creek and Pelleyton. His object in visiting these localities was to look after the public road conditions. Starting from Columbia he found the road only possible until he reached the section over which Mr. Hardin Cundiff is the Overseer. Mr. Coffey states that Mr. Cundiff has the road under his charge in fine shape. The next section of road after leaving Mr. Cundiff took him to the Plum Point Bridge, and is in fairly good condition, but not so well worked and looked after as that under Mr. Cundiff.

After crossing the Watson Bridge, he found a section of road in very bad condition. The overseer, does not know who he is, seems to have been resting on his laurels.

The next piece of road was that under charge of Mr. Tom McDermont. He found this piece in fine condition, the overseer evidently being interested in bettering the condition of our public highways.

Leaving Mr. McDermont he went to Pelleyton via Dunbar hill. On this hill the county spent five hundred dollars, but since that expenditure it has been neglected. There are wash-outs, making it almost impassable. There is a section of road in this immediate locality that seems to have been overlooked entirely by the overseer.

Leaving this locality he went to Pelleyton, and en route round the best piece of road in the county, showing that the overseer is enterprising. At Pelleyton he found every body deeply interested in road building, and ready to do their part. On this side of the river, Little Lake precinct, he found the road under charge of Josh Beard, in good shape. The road under Jim McQuary he found in excellent condition, showing Mr. McQuary to be an intelligent worker—a man who understands how to use tools and to see that they are used by men in his jurisdiction.

He does not know who the overseer is on the next section, on his return to Columbia, but he carefully surveyed it, and is of the opinion that the overseer is a close relative to Rip Van Winkle, who it will be remembered, slept for twenty years, finding upon awaking, that his house and other effects had tumbled down.

From Roberts store to the Green River Bridge the road is almost impassable. A little work would do incalculable good here, and the overseer should wake up.

Mr. Coffey's conclusion is this: He found where the overseers were interested in bettering the condition of the highways, men who understand road building, ditching, etc., good travel is the result. Where the roads have been neglected, they were almost impassable. He further states that the trip to the upper end of the county has convinced him that the people can have good roads if they want them. Good roads enhance the value of homes, hence every farmer in Adair county should become interested and lend Mr. Coffey every assistance possible.

Bargain in Millinery.

My immense stock of ladies and childrens hats must go by Dec. 25, regardless of cost. I am prepared to give you the greatest bargains ever offered in millinery. Call and be convinced.

Mrs. Geo. Staples.

Glasgow.—The famous Newnan tract of timber on East Fork Creek was this week bought by Lawrence Bros., of Tompkinsville. The price was not made known. This is said to be one of the most valuable bodies of fine timber in the section. The purchasers are already erecting a large mill on the tract and will begin putting the timber on the market at an early date. Elzy Mitchell, of this place, has bought a fine body of timber from the Turk Bros., of Metcalfe county, and will market it.

The members of the girls' literary societies of the Lindsay-Wilson Training School entertained in the dining hall of the dormitory Friday evening with a "Tacky party." The hall was beautifully decorated with orange and white and many evergreens and the effect was very artistic but the costumes were "killing." A delightful salad course was served and the evening was made delightful with music and interesting contests.

Primary elections to select postmasters is growing in favor. One has been called for Marion, Cretenden county, to be held in January. Marion is Ollie James' home and it was at his suggestion the call was made. In every town in Kentucky, where there is likely to be a hot contest, a primary would be the most satisfactory way to make the selection. It would give all Democrats in the jurisdiction of the post-office an opportunity to say who they wanted, and when over there would be no room for kicking, and it would also relieve the Congressman.

Died Near Cane Valley.

Mrs. Rosie Van Hoy, the wife of Mr. Ed Van Hoy, died near Cane Valley last Saturday morning. She was about twenty-eight years old, and was a daughter of Mr. Ed Squires, who died many years ago. Her mother, who was Miss Ellen Murrell, is also dead. She was a young woman who had many friends in the neighborhood. Her illness was of long duration, being afflicted with pulmonary trouble.

Rev. J. R. Crawford will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday night. He will also reach the Thanksgiving sermon at Union Thursday of this week.

A Great Building Falls

When its foundation is undermined, and if the foundation of health—good digestion—is attacked, quick collapse follows. On the first signs of indigestion, Dr. King's New Life Pills should be taken to tone the stomach and regulate liver, kidneys and bowels. Pleasant, easy, safe and only 25 cents at Pauli Drug Co.

A Tribute.

Mrs. Manerva Woodrum 73 years old to-day, Nov. 18 1912, born 1839, joined the Christian church in 1858, in which she lived a consistent Christian life, always mild, cheerful and patient even to death, married Samuel Woodrum August 29, 1861, to which union ten children were born, who, with her husband, still survive her. She was loving as a wife and mother, and kind to every one.

She was laid to rest in the Merrimac cemetery till the last trumpet shall sound.

For our dear loving grandmother we cannot help but weep. Her sweet, pure life has fled and left us, but her dear, sweet memory will linger in our home forever. Her body lies sleeping beneath the sod, but alas! she is not dead—only asleep in Jesus with saints and the angels in the land of the blest.

A Granddaughter.

Soil Salvation.

The American farmers are beginning to think that they are farming scientifically, but they are far behind several of the old countries mainly because they take more from the soil than they put back; They are robbers of the soil. The population of the United States has increased 21 per cent. in the last ten years and the grain increase of the nation has been only 17 per cent., hence the surplus of the nation is growing less from year to year, and this is true of many of the other crops of the nation. Countries whose soil has been cultivated for a thousand years produce larger and better crops than in the United States because of their better system of farming. More attention must be paid to soil building more people must sow grass and rotate their crops. More people must then turn their attention to cattle, truck and poultry raising. Farms need to be cleaned up and put into a thriving and paying condition. Farmers must wake up and get books and papers upon farming and learn to farm profitably. Many of our farmers have yet to learn that they do not know how to farm, make money and at the same time build up their soil.

Porto Rico's New Wonder.

From far away Porto Rico come reports of a wonderful new discovery that is believed will vastly benefit the people. Ramon T. Marceau, of Barcelona, writes "Dr. King's New Discovery is doing splendid work here. It cured me about five times of terrible coughs and colds, also my brother of a severe cold in his chest and more than 20 others, who used it on my advice. We hope this great medicine will yet be sold in every drug store in Porto Rico." For throat and lung troubles it has no equal. A trial will convince you of its merit. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Pauli Drug Co.

Sheriffs Must Give up Money.

Actions probably will be instituted against county sheriffs, who have been taking fees out of school taxes collected by them. Inspectors have reported to the Department of Education that this practice is not uncommon and Superintendent Barksdale Hamlett said he believed several thousands of dollars can be recovered for the use of the State school fund. The sheriff is entitled to ten per cent of the first $5,000 he collects and four per cent of the balance; but the Court of Appeals has held that none of this may come out of the school tax, which must be turned in intact, and the sheriff must take his fees out of the county fund. It is reported that in some counties the school fund in being made that "goat" and the sheriffs are taking all of the first ten per cent out of it, the county fund profiting thereby.

SCHOOL PROBLEM.

The Department of Education also is trying to solve the problem raised by the relation between denominations, schools and public schools in the mountains. Schools there, supported by benevolent associations frequently are given the common school fund to aid in their support. While it is acknowledged that in many instances the community has better schools there by, some friction has arisen and Superintendent Hamlett is of the opinion it is time for the communities to begin to assume their own responsibility for the public schools.

Dirigo.

Joe Stotts bought one mare from H. F. Gaston for fifty dollars.

Mose Wooten bought fifty hogs from different parties at 6 and 7 cents.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bean has been very sick for the past few days.

J. C. Royse sold two head of cattle to H. F. Gaston for $50.

J. M. Campbell sold a yoke of work cattle to Jo. Smith for $75.

J. C. Royse bought twenty two hogs from J. R. Gaston for $48.

John Janes bought a cow from W. A. Janes for $20.

J. C. Royse bought a young mare from Ben White for $140.

It has been reported that there is quite a lot beech mast in this community this season and so some people, especially outsiders have almost gone wild about it, and over a thousand hogs from different sections have been driven in here. One party had a drove of about three hundred and was this week served with a notice to remove them at once on penalty of a damage suit if he failed. It created some little stir but the hogs disappeared just the same. Since this took place it has been rumored that others would be required to remove their hogs, and if they should be it might work a hardship on someone. But from the observation of your reporter the amount of mast in the woods has been over-estimated. I do not believe that there is one tenth the amount that some people claim there is.

Several of the men of this community met at the home of Mrs. Marian Norris last Tuesday and cut wood for her. They cut almost enough to run her the remainder of the winter. Now when some of the other neighbors who have teams go in and haul the wood to her woodhouse at least one widow will be partially provided for the winter.

Egg Production.

Produce the infertile egg.

Infertile eggs are produced by hens having no male birds with them.

Removing the male bird has no influence on the number of eggs laid.

The hen's greatest profit-producing period is the first and second years, and unless a hen is an exceptionally good breeder she should be disposed of at the end of her second laying season and before starting to molt.

If possible, mark the pullets that lay in the fall, and use them in the breeding pen for the following spring.

Log Cabin Memorial.

The Harrodsburg Historical Society, of Harrodsburg, Ky., last week began the preliminary work to erecting a Memorial Cabin to Abraham Lincoln on Old Fort Hill near the town.

The logs from the old cabin in which Thomas Lincoln and wife, the parents of Abraham Lincoln, first began housekeeping are to be used for the building and it will be constructed similar to the old fort that stood on the hill.

The house will be a museum of historical records and articles and when finished will be a quaint building. The logs that are being used were taken from the cabin which formerly stood in Washington county and they are all in an excellent state of preservation. The building will be finished and ready for visitors next Spring.—LaRue County Herald.

JOY OF CREATING.

Put Your Heart In Your Work, No Matter What It May Be.

While every man who makes a living is not a genius, yet the real joy of creating can belong to each of us. Just as real and true a way. If we put into farming or banking or our school work the sense of making something, we get the great treasure out of it. When we fill any task with ourselves we make something.

A girl says, "I made the room tidy," which simply means she put something of herself into the disorderly room and so beautified it. After she had made it tidy it reflected something of her self; it looked some idea of order such as she had in her own mind. A boy says, "I made a good recitation in school yesterday," and he is right, for although the lesson was already there, it had to wait for him to come along and make it a recitation.

So it is everywhere. Making anything means, no matter how simple the task, that we bring out something that did not exist before and put that something in to some degree like the maker of it. We get out what we put in. If any one wants to be miserable the surest way is just to do things without putting his whole heart and self into them. Think of the mess outside of the tasks and they are not worth doing. But once put your self into them and all that is changed. St. Nicholas.

A LEGAL LEGEND.

The Tale of a Telling Comparison in an Oriental Court.

When Abd-el-Hakk was poor, as he was one day traveling across a wreny plain, he came to the house of the Widow Zaidah, who was also poor, but when he made known his hunger she set before him two hard boiled eggs, all the food there was in her house.

Later, when Abd-el-Hakk lived in Marakesh and was very rich, Meludi, the lawyer, disliking him, persuaded the Widow Zaidah to sue him for the eggs, but not for the eggs alone, for they would have become two chickens, which in time would have so multiplied that the whole fortune of Abd-el-Hakk would not now pay for them. When the case came to trial the rich man was not in court.

"Why is the defendant not here?" demanded the judge.

"My lord," said counsel for the defense, "he is gone to sow boiled beans."

"Boiled beans?"

"Boiled beans, my lord."

"Is he mad?"

"He is very wise, my lord. Surely if hard boiled eggs can be hatched boiled beans will grow."

Marshal Mortier fell dead and about thirteen other people were killed and thirty wounded. Fieschi had taken the upper floors of a house seven weeks before and there rigged up an open frame four feet by three feet six inches, supported on four posts of wood and itself supporting twenty-five iron barrels used in grooves at various angles so as to command an area of twenty-five feet in length and ten feet in height. When he fired the train powder that set off his battery the king would have been killed if four barrels had not burst and two missed the

HOW MIDWAY CAME TO LIFE

A $20,000 Investment on Its Boys and Girls.

IN MODERN SCHOOLHOUSE.

The Town Began Three Years Ago to Realize the Importance of Conserving Its Future Citizens' Health and Mentality—Plenty of Room to Play

Many rural communities feel that any building and any grounds will do for school purposes. These communities have never thought definitely how far they have progressed in so many other lines. The average man will say when you press him for a reason for the poor school equipment in his neighborhood, "Well, that school was good enough for me, and I reckon it's good enough for my children." His own home, his farming implements, his barns and all else in his life have changed from a "tallow candle and homemade rail" age to an "electric light and a steam thrasher" age.

Three years ago Midway and the surrounding country began to think it was time to have a twentieth century school plant. They began to feel that it would be well to have a building as good as any of their churches. At first the general public shook its head and mumbled under its breath, but gradually it began to see the wisdom of the movement and at last voted the funds necessary.

While the trustees planned a school that should be a credit architectural, they did not forget to buy enough ground to give the energetic parents that were to be trained an elbow room. The beautiful building stands well back from the turnpike on five acres of the blue grass land. Behind and to one side of the school building is a comfortable stable stable to hold twenty-four horses.

As is usual in school affairs all over the country, the trustees built the school with a view of its taking care of all the pupils in the district for the next fifty years. Now, after only a year and a half, they are beginning to see the natural result of a fine growing school plant among both children and parents. Today five grade and high school teachers manage to teach the 250 boys and girls that are enrolled. The number is just fifty more than were enrolled last year. It now plans that the school will be able to add a hundred more pupils in a few more years in addition will have a building to take care of the children. Besides this, the school is a place where the children can play, and the trustees claim that very few of those children even try to play truant. Ample playgrounds, clean, warm schoolrooms, comfortable single desks, light and pleasant surroundings make schooling less irksome, and the incentive for "playing out" has been removed.

Several schools rolled into one and many things possible. It allows a school fund to pay for a reliable teacher, who can heat, clean and care for the property as it should be cared for.

MIDWAY'S SUCCESS.

It provides teachers for the different grades and makes efficient and strong work. By bringing many children together it gives a chance for the child to develop his social nature in a group of his own age. That the school is a success is a fact that has been proved fifty new pupils this year. The school has fifty children to the school population of Midway, that makes it one of the best of its kind in the town an impossibility, that in two and a half years has not shown a scratched wall or desk, is a huge success.

Does all this answer the question of investment? Can any one ever figure exactly what stronger men and women in a community are worth? The answer is a good investment for Midway? The answer can only come by asking any of the residents in the district of those who are willing to send their children five or six miles and pay extra tuition to have them in a real live twentieth century school.

PASTOR RUSSELL IS CHALLENGED

A Complete Answer to the Query, "Who Ordained Him?"

The Whole Subject Clarified For the Public Benefit—Clergy and Laity Unscriptural Terms.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 17.—As always, Pastor Russell got the crowds today. We report his discourse on Ministerial Ordination and Titles. Very evidently it is a reply to an attack recently made upon him by a Mr. W. T. Ellis, field editor of The Continent, and alias the "Religious Rambler." Ellis claims that Pastor Russell's ordination as Pastor is fraudulent. The address shows that Pastor Russell fully understands the situation. He fully justified his position before his vast audience and showed up the "Rambler" editor in the unenviable light of either being ignorant of the subjects discussed, or attempting to deceive the public. His text was, "Not of men, neither by man but by Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised Him from the dead (Gal. 1, 1). He said:—

"The time has come for telling the people what the Bible teaches respecting ordination to teach and preach. The doctrine of Apostolic Succession started in the second century A. D. The bishops claimed that they had the same authority that Jesus gave to the twelve Apostles. Upon this claim they ordained the inferior clergy."

This principle is wholly unscriptural. According to the Bible, the Church of Christ is not composed of two parts, clergy and laity. Jesus declared, "All ye are brethren; One is your Master Christ." St. Paul shows that in the early Church the ministers were the servants of the flock. They were of the people, chosen by them by the stretching forth of the hand.

Many of the reformers coveted the titles accorded the Catholic clergy. They did not care to tell the congregation that their word was supreme, and that their ministers were merely their servants. Others, realizing that these titles were unscriptural, declined to use them, preferring to be called pastor. My Bible Student associates, knowing my objection to the title "Reverend," address me as Pastor. I am the oldest Pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle congregation, and also of the London Tabernacle congregation, and I fail to see ground for criticism in this respect, nor do I attack Christian brethren who accept other and unscriptural titles.

Must Pastors Be Ordained?

Ordination is necessary to the office of pastor. The question is, What constitutes an ordination to preach among the people of God?

This question has received various answers. The Roman, Anglican and Greek Churches, claiming Apostolic Succession, declare that authorization to preach must come through their apostolic fathers, and have not allowed Testamental ministers to enter their ranks until the Constantinian, about a year ago granted this concession. Of course, if their proposition were correct, then just as much unordained as all other Protestant ministers—and a more so.

Each denomination at its beginning was opposed by all others; yet each taught that the clergy were separated from the laity. Only since the organization of the Evangelical Alliance (1846) have the different sects of Christendom acknowledged each other's ordinations. Each denomination makes use of such ceremonies as it deems proper. If, therefore, the congregation of Christian believers in Brooklyn and London ordain or appoint me as their pastor, it is their own choice what ceremonies, if any, shall accompany that ordination. Who can dispute this? No Protestant denomination, surely; for their own ordinations are on this very basis.

The subject of ordination seems to have fallen into confusion during the Dark Ages. St. Paul particularly emphasizes the fact that he did not receive his commission as preacher and Apostle of Christ from his brother Apostles, but by Divine authorization. This is the Scriptural principle underlying Divine Ordination to the ministry of Christ.

No denomination claims that the ordination of its ministers either made or kept them perfect. All admit that there have been sad failures amongst their ordained ministers. Neither would they claim that ordination has given their ministers superior discernment of Divine Truths. On the contrary, it has injured the clergy by making many of them domineering and lordly, contrary to the spirit and teachings of Christ and the Apostles; and the laity by leading them to conclude that merely secular matters should engage their attention.

The True Ordination.

Finally the Pastor showed the true ordination to be the impartation of the Holy Spirit. Whoever receives this has God's authority to be His ambassador and mouthpiece. Such show the work of the Holy Spirit regenerating their minds and hearts, giving them insight into the Scriptures, and enabling them to be God's mouthpieces, ministers of His Truth.

EDUCATION AND SUCCESS

The Farmer Is Essential to the Latter.

CATTLE AND THE CHILDREN.

If Two Year and Four Year Old Steers Won't Thrive in Same Feed Lot Why Should Children of All Ages Study Together?

"Johnny, he ain't takin' no interest in his school. I've got a mighty good notion to let him quit an' go to work on the farm."

"How long has he been in school?"

"Oh, he's been off and on about six years, I reckon. He's just finished his Fourth Reader, so he's got enough schoolin' to use on a farm. He's got more than my granddaddy had in his day, an' you know he died worth about $30,000."

"Tell me something about your granddaddy."

"Well, you see, he come over the mountains when this here was all Virginia, an' he took some land an' began to clear it up an' farm it, an' he—"

"What did you say he paid for it?"

"Granddaddy? Why, he didn't pay nothin' for it."

"How much land did he get?"

"Oh, he could 'a' had all he could tend to—a thousand acres was all he could tend to, an' he—"

"So he farmed a thousand acres, did he?"

"Not all of it. Some of it was left in timber so the hogs could be turned out to fatten on the beech an' oak mast in the fall. An'—"

"How old were the hogs when he killed them for meat?"

"About two years of age. Say, what are you askin' me all these questions for anyhow?"

"I am trying to find out why you think Johnny has enough education to make him a successful farmer."

"I just now told you because his granddaddy made a snug fortune with less schoolin' than Johnny's got."

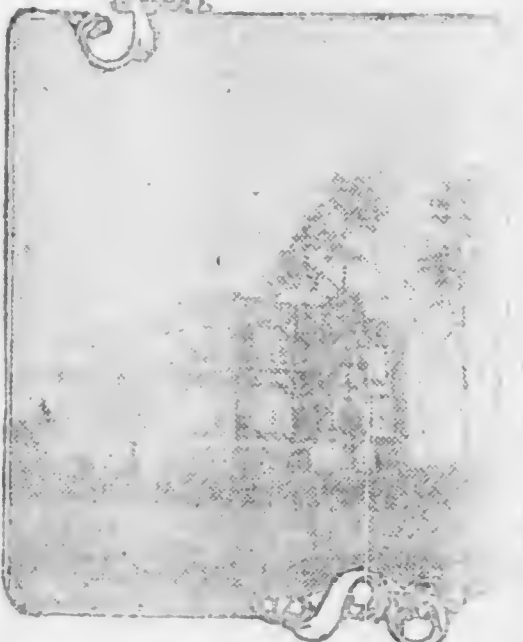

"Can Johnny go out an' find a thousand acres for nothing?"

"No, of course he can't."

"Can he afford to keep a hog for two years and fatten him on beech an' oak mast?"

"No. Why, say, look here, I never thought of it before, but my granddaddy got rich just a-sartin' still, did he?"

"Yes, he did. Where your granddaddy got a thousand acres for nothing, your boy will have to take it at a valuation of from $20,000 to $100,000 and make it pay. He can't wait two years for hogs to be ready for slaughter. He must be at eight to ten months. There is no way now for your boy to be a pauper and get rich sitting still. He must be educated to succeed in the twentieth century."

A REAL SCHOOL.

daddy got rich just a-sartin' still, did he?"

He Knew—He Had Fed Cattle.

The old trustee turned to the visitor and asked, "Well, what do you think of our new consolidated school?"

"Beautiful! Cost a lot of money, didn't it?"

"Yep, an' it costs like smoke to run it with teachers for all the different grades. But all of us are for it now."

"Were you against consolidation?"

"Yep, I was against it strong. You see, I got the three R's in a single room schoolhouse." He paused, looked at the splendid brick building and continued: "I oughter known better too. Anybody that had fed cattle for thirty years oughter know a consolidated school was better than a one room school."

"Why should you have known? Cattle and children are not the same."

"Look here—just stop an' think for a minute, will you? I've known for thirty years that you can't put weanling calves, two year an' four year old calves, two year an' four year old steers in the same feed lot an' get fast class results. In our of time one room school we had 'em all sizes an' ages in the same lot an' feedin' out of the same trough. It won't work any better with children than it does with cattle."

A school tax is simply a long time investment in brains; therefore the eternal question should not be "HOW SMALL A TAX CAN WE GET ALONG WITH?" but "HOW MUCH CAN WE INVEST TO ADVANCE?" It is a business proposition pure and simple.

THE GILA MONSTER.

Repulsive in Looks, It Is Really a Harmless Creature.

Probably there is no other living creature more feared by the ignorant than the Gila monster, about which all manner of weird tales have been told. It has even been held that the mere breath of this animal is sufficient to cause death to the one upon whom it fell. Scientific inquiry, however, fails to disclose a single instance whereof the breath or even the bite of this creature has resulted fatally. The fact that dissection and microscopic examination do not reveal any trace of glands for the secretion of venom is sufficient evidence to indicate that this curious member of the lizard family has been slandered.

Some years ago a civil engineer in the southwest undertook to settle once for all the question whether "the monster" was deadly or not. A fine specimen was captured and confined in a wire inclosure. A chicken was obtained, and its feathers were removed in order that the lizard might have every opportunity to strike at the breast. The chicken was then held quite close to the Gila monster, which soon snapped viciously and secured a firm hold on the fowl's breast, retaining this grip for more than ten minutes. When the victim was released it was found that the chicken's breastbone had been broken. Nevertheless the fowl quickly recovered, the bone knitting and the wound healing with no symptoms of poisoning.

It is very probable that the reputation for evil borne by the Gila monster is due simply and solely to its most repulsive appearance.—Harper's Weekly.

THE UBIQUITOUS SEA LION.

He Strayed a Long Way From Home Before He Was Killed.

The following story is taken from the American Magazine:

"Sunday is a dull day, and the city editors had a habit of detaching men to go to the zoological gardens and get animal stories for Monday morning. The reporters got together one Sunday morning and persuaded the head and mail keeper to let them publish a fake story. It was rather commonplace, concerning the alleged escape of a non-existent sea lion from the pool to open water."

"Fake," said the managing editor as he read the story. "Let's make it a good one."

"Thereupon he sent telegrams to every country correspondent on that water or its tributaries, merely inquiring if anything had been seen of the escaped sea lion. The response was appalling. The correspondents needed only the hint. That day the sea lion was seen by at least twenty correspondents, and Morgan pointed out the reports one after another. This spurred the correspondents went to it in earnest. The following day the sea lion was reported at every point within 200 miles. The story spread like ripples on water. In five days the lion was sighted over half the world, and an enthusiast at Southampton called that he was heading toward the new sea. Then a cruel correspondent up on Lake Superior killed him and wired that he was sending the skin as proof. I always suspected that the managing editor did it himself."

A Fine Sense of Feeling.

One of two dummies who run a boot black "trick" in partnership was bragging of his well developed sense of touch, particularly in the matter of money. He boasted that he could feel the denomination of any United States coin merely by feeling it. His partner, wearied of these boasts and came back with this:

"Your sense of feelin' ain't nothin' to my friend Marcus. Him and me use to work on the Pullman down through Kansas. Marcus had been on this route for about ten years. One night when we was both asleep, long around midnight, I wakes up and I shakes Marcus and I says, 'Marcus, where are we?' And Marcus jest rolls over and sticks his hand out the window and he says, 'We're goin' through Oswego.'—Everybody's."

Writing on a Pillow.

Every one who has had occasion to write while riding in a railway train will be interested in the fact that the disagreeable effects of the jarring of the carriage are greatly mitigated by writing on a pillow. The pillow may be either held on the lap or placed on a table. The pad of paper and the pen which guides the pen or pencil should both rest on the pillow.

In this manner it will be found possible to write legibly and with comfort in a train flying at full speed.—London Answers.

TIMELY HINTS FOR FARMERS

Feeding the Horse.

The horse, most especially of all stock, should have careful attention in feeding. The hurried feeding, not preparing the grain properly, often causes bad results if not death. The ear corn before being put in the feed trough should have the smutty, worm eaten grains removed. Then if the ear is struck against something solid it will be found that there will fall from it a great amount of worm dust. That is not good for the horses. When shelled corn or corn chops are being fed they should first be put in water and the dust and chaff floated out. It is surprising the amount of rotten grains there is among the shelled, sacked corn. The heated and molded hay should not be fed to the horse. It will cause a bloat, a poisonous gas in the stomach, most especially the work horse that has but little chance of getting green stuff, and, besides, there is but little food value in such hay.—Farm and Ranch.

The Small Sheep Flock.

Sheep raising on a small scale is almost universally profitable on almost every farm, but when more than a small flock is kept quite a different proposition is involved, says Progressive Farmer. With a small flock no special pastures are required, and they can be housed in buildings used for the other stock without crowding and require little feed and practically no special attention. When a larger flock is kept two or more pastures should be maintained, ample houses for keeping dry without crowding provided and an abundance of suitable feed supplied. We advise the beginner in this line of stock raising to procure the best native ewes obtainable in his locality and then buy a pure bred ram and with this small flock learn the business thoroughly before attempting to raise sheep in large numbers.

Kill Smut on Seed Wheat.

A pint of formalin and fifty gallons of water make a very effective solution for treating seed wheat to prevent the appearance of smut. The formalin can be purchased at the drug store for a small sum, and the farm pump will do the work. Spread the wheat out on the barn floor and sprinkle thoroughly with the solution, using a common sprinkling can. The wheat should be shoveled over and sprinkled again in order to wet every kernel with the formalin. Old sacks, canvas, etc., should then be thrown over the heap and allowed to stand for a few hours. After this the wheat is spread out and allowed to dry.

CHARCOAL FOR POULTRY HEALTH.

Keeps Fowls in Good Condition and Prevents Disease.

The larger per cent of our poultry raisers who have the greatest success with their fowls, both old and young, keep a constant supply of charcoal before their birds, from the time they are hatched until they are disposed of. In my long experience in the poultry business I have found charcoal is one of the greatest disinfectants I know of, writes A. E. Wood, a devotee in American Cultivator.

I keep it before the fowls all the time and feed it in their mash mixtures and very seldom have an ailing fowl or chicken. Of course it is not uncommon for all poultry raisers to have fowls become suddenly ill and die without any apparent cause whatever. It always being a profound mystery to the owner. But, so far as preventing contagious diseases, the use of charcoal will absolutely prevent any catastrophe of this kind.

Of course it is expected that fowls are kept comfortable and in clean quarters. It could not be expected that charcoal will perform miracles. But where fowls have intelligent management charcoal will be an auxiliary that can be relied upon as a health producer. There is nothing that can take its place when it comes to putting the fowls in good laying condition. Where charcoal is used I have never had bowel trouble in my chickens. It will help prevent little chicken cholera if fed freely to the breeders during the winter months, and if the powdered charcoal is used in the mash mixture for the growing chicks they will develop very rapidly.

The coarse ground charcoal, about the size of the average grain of corn, is the best grade to get for the older fowls.

Green Food For Chickens.

Chickens require green stuff all winter. Provide roots, but do not feed them on the ground. Drive spikes in the posts or sides of the chicken house about a foot above the floor and drive the roots on these spikes.

Separating the Milk.

Good separators these days will do a good job of separating cold milk, but there is no economy in separating milk when cold. The fat is most easily and thoroughly removed while the milk is warm.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

The One Best Bet.

The Rev. Joseph H. Twitchell, for nearly fifty years pastor of the Asylum Hill Congregational church in Hartford, Conn., saw three years of service in the civil war as chaplain of the Seventy-first New York regiment. In the course of his service Mr. Twitchell's experiences were, of course, many and varied. One of them, of a serious nature, has been recently made public.

After a certain fight the surgeon told the chaplain that one poor fellow was quite beyond hope. The chaplain leaned over the dying soldier.

"Well, my dear fellow," he began in a voice of deep emotion, "you are very badly wounded, and if you have anything to say or any word that you want sent to your family, tell me now."

The poor fellow understood. "My inside coat pocket," he breathed painfully.

The chaplain felt a pocketbook there and took it out. "Is that what you want?"

"Yes," was the faint reply. "Open it."

"Here is a ten dollar bill. Is that what you want?"

"Yes."

"What shall I do with it?"

Then the soldier said in a whisper, "Bet you that that I don't die."

And he did not.—New York Sun.

Confusing.

"If we women had the vote, matters would be simplified."

"I don't know," replied Miss Cypriana.

"They might be more complex. When a man sent us candy and flowers we wouldn't know whether he was looking up to a proposal or merely electing us."—Washington Star.

Sure Thing.

The Guest—When I asked you if you had given me a quiet room you said that after 9 o'clock I could hear a good drop, and now I find it's right over a bowling alley.

The Night Clerk—Well, can't you hear 'em drop?—Hartford Post.

Scant.

They were leaving Eden.

"The lunch," exclaimed Adam, "is scant."

"And that," rejoined Eve, with sad den consciousness, "is about all." Judge.

Out of Sight.

THE ADAIR COUNTY NEWS

Published Every Wednesday

BY THE

Adair County News Company.

(INCORPORATED.)

CHAS. S. HARRIS EDITOR.

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interest of the City of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Entered at the Columbia Post-office as second class mail matter.

WED. NOV., 27, 1912

Gov. E. L. Norris, of Montana, a native of Cumberland county, Kentucky, is mentioned for the post of Secretary of the Interior.

President, elect Wilson says he is not thinking of Cabinet positions; that his mind is occupied with larger things.

Senator Isidor Rayner, of Florida, is dead. The end came in his apartments, Washington, Monday. He was a Democrat.

Attorney General Garnett and his Assistants are making a strong fight in the franchise tax suit against various corporations, now on at Frankfort.

In the new Congress there will be twelve more Democrats from Northern than from Southern States, which is taken to indicate the obliteration of all sectionalism in national politics.

The speech of President Taft to the United Daughters of the Confederacy, met the approval of the whole South, and the President has received numerous letters, commending the speech.

Future ex-Presidents of the United States will be pensioned in the sum of $25,000 annually by the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Widows of ex-Presidents, so long as they remain unmarried, will receive the same sum.

The District Court of Appeals at Los Angeles ordered the Los Angeles election board to use the tally sheets instead of the certified figures of the election judges, which will assure Wilson nearly all, if not all, of California's thirteen electors.

How he went to Los Angeles with ten quarts of nitroglycerine to blow up the Times auxiliary plant and take suspicion off James B. McNamara, but was prevented by strong guards, was told by Ortie E. McManigal at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial.

Finishing a work started in 1906, during which his two colleagues died, Gen. James H. Berry reported to the Secretary of War that he has found and marked the graves of 22,401 Confederate soldiers and sailors who died in the North.

Sedna Allen, chief of the Allen gang which shot up the Hillsville, Va., court-house last March, resulting in the death of five persons, was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and given fifteen years in the penitentiary. Two others went to the chair.

It will be remembered that about one year ago, Squire Beatty was foully murdered at Burnside, Pulaski county. James Ellis, who was a constable, and another man who did the killing were arrested and subsequently tried and convicted. Last Friday Ellis paid the penalty of his crime in the electric chair at Eddyville.

Interest in the Balkan war situation has been shifted from the zone of fighting to Austria and Russia, which are rapidly mobilizing their armies on the border. While this is going on the Turks and Bulgarians rest on their arms awaiting a conference of plenipotentiaries regarding an armistice. Five corps of German reservists also have been called to the colors.

The Courier-Journal and Louisville Evening Times are now located in their new building, corner of Third and Green. It is interesting to take a retrospective view of the progress of the Courier-Journal during the last thirty-five or forty years. The building, a magnificent one, Fourth and Green, from which these two publications were removed, was built by the company during those years, and great improvements made on the publication until it was classed as being in one of the best homes and having one of the most complete outfits in the United States. Business increased, and recently the company decided that more room and more conveniences were necessary, and accordingly the imposing building on the corner of Third and Green was made ready and the Courier-Journal and the Times plants removed thereto. When you take into consideration the vast amount of machinery, it sounds almost incredible that this removal was made without the loss of a publication, both papers coming out on time the day the removal was made. The people of Kentucky should be proud of these two publications. The Courier-Journal, Hon. Henry Watterson editor, is in a class to itself. Mr. Watterson does not write like any other Journalist in the United States, and his future predictions which generally come true, make his editorial expressions appear like the writer was inspired. The Times edited by Col. Halderman, is the best afternoon paper known to us.

Postmaster Primary Indorsed.

Speaking of postmaster primaries, several of the Democratic State papers are taking a strong stand for this method of selecting these officials. The Harrodsburg Herald in discussing the matter says editorially:

"Such a course would relieve many a weary Congressman of the responsibility of deciding between friends equally worthy and efficient, and would give the community to be served an opportunity to select its servant. The ordinary method of petition means little or nothing. The 'pie' falls to the applicant having the strongest political pull, or is determined by the partiality or grouch of some one wearing the senatorial toga. Under the Republican administration the appointment is controlled by Republican influence, and under a Democratic Administration, by Democratic influence. Then why not bring it a little nearer to the people by a primary of Democrats or Republicans according to the Administration in power, making the local political party responsible for good service. The responsibility would be placed where it belongs. Why should not the voice of the people to be served have a determining influence in a matter which vitally concerns them? Why should a Senator living in Louisville or Paducah or Cynthiana say who shall be postmaster at Harrodsburg? In such matters he is generally looking out for his own political fences and not for the interest of the people here."

All Sorts.

Women outnumber men in both New York and Philadelphia.

Concerning that Red Sox victory, why not drop it? Snodgrass did.

They say the new ten-dollar bill is a work of art, but it can't be at that price.

A London swindler sold dried peas for liver pill. Probably just as effective.

"Women's dresses are to become tighter." Roller skates next and a boy behind to push.

The latest fad is hygienic marriages. It is sweeping all other fads out of the public eye.

London is shocked over the way the British nation is taking to gum chewing. But they stick to it.

Medical science is constantly discovering hundreds of new reasons why people should call in the doctor.

Before ordering your split pea soup you should patriotically inquire if the pea was split in Germany or America.

According to a scientist, all men will be baldheaded in 500 years. Its a cinch they will if they live until then.

Somebody claims to have discovered black snow in the Alps. But any winter he can find a lot of it in Pittsburgh.

Plants and vegetables are to be raised by electricity. As far as fruits are concerned, we already have electric currents.

A New York man was robbed of his pearl necklace, worth $30,000, on an ocean liner. Where was his chaperone?

Women certainly are obstinate creatures. One in Boston is contesting the dictum of three courts that declared her dead.

Our pupils are found to be weak in the three R's. The old-fashioned spelling bee might profitably be revived, it seems.

Kissing is forbidden in public places in Switzerland. Undoubtedly on the ground that there is more than enough danger there without it.

An eastern man wrote a tragedy and the manager turned it into a comedy. It is but a step from the sublime to the ridiculous, after all.

Chinese women are said to have the most beautiful complexions in the world. Still, it depends on whether it is orientally considered.

Now the German scientists have discovered a means of producing artificial milk. Why not invent a way to grow eggs on the egg plant.

"Resolve to live a hundred years and you can do it," says a St. Louis physician. But the majority of good resolutions are broken in a short time.

There used to be made in this country copper-toed shoes that the small boy could not kick out in one month. Ah, those were happy days for parents!

Infantile paralysis has appeared among the Eskimos in Alaska. The backward races must often sit down and wonder whether civilization really pays.

Physicians are now discussing whether incurables should be killed. Which brings up the question: "How can physicians agree on who are incurables?"

An eighteen-pound lobster has been caught in Long Island Sound. Still, a chorus girl can catch a bigger one than that on Broadway any day in the year.

In Baltimore apolice justice has arranged mirrors in his court room so that drunks and disorderlies will have to see themselves. Justice should have a little pity.

However you may have noticed that these articles which the sentimental burglar restores on the plea of his victim, would never bring much at the pawnbroker's.

As long ago as 1830 it was known that the senses could be stimulated by electricity. And long before that it was realized that a hot stove would accomplish the same result.

Mme. Paquin says that new styles for women will be largely a matter of individual taste. It may be true, but women will still continue to follow the dictates of their dressmakers.

Crawling on all fours will cure indigestion, says a French doctor. But when a man gets to the state where he has to crawl on all fours, indigestion is the least of his troubles.

To be simple and to be without guile is to triumph over all. Is this not the case of the young woman who when congratulated upon the quality and strength of her perfume said that she was glad he had noticed it?

Twenty-four men lost their lives through the explosion of fire-damp in a coal mine at Alais, France.

USE AND REMEDY.

Uncertainty of the immediate future is looked upon by many men as a curse, as a blockade to enterprise and business prosperity, and this blockade is now quite apparent throughout the channels of trade.

The Presidential Election; the efforts of Congress with no fixed purpose; Organized Labor as a new factor in politics; together with other matters of greater or less import, represent at this time a chaotic conflict of separate interests, to harmonize which is now the problem before the country.

All want Prosperity, Peace and Plenty. Read with care the Cincinnati Enquirer, a journal that prints all the news each day from every commercial center throughout the world. A barometer of causes and effects that points out, as a Beacon Light, the danger and the safeguard therefrom.

As well known, the Daily Enquirer is the largest in size and highest priced paper in the United States, yet cheapest, measured by quality and quantity.

The Weekly Enquirer, with the cream and digest of all the news, able and conservative editorials, market reports, methods and results from Government and State Experiment Stations, veterinary matters, People's Forum, choice literature, short and continued stories, non-sectarian sermons, general information, etc., with the exclusion of all matters of scandal and immorality, is to be the Cleanest Weekly Family Journal obtainable. Each issue is worth the price of a year's subscription.

Solicitors for subscriptions make a handsome profit and increase the good influence of The Enquirer in the uplift of our great industry, and for the betterment and welfare of the common good. For terms write to The Enquirer, Cincinnati, Ohio.

What's The Matter With Your Baby?

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its crying does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been remedied the headache, the sluggishness and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartic pills or nasty waters, for these will act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. M. S. Adams, Auburn, Ky., and Mrs. L. M. Boyce, Tip Top, Ky., the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative, and its very mildness and freedom from griping recommend it especially for the use of children, women, and old folks generally—people who need a gentle bowel stimulant. Thousands of American families have been enthusiastic about it for more than a quarter of a century.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. R. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

BOILING AN EGG.

If It Gives You Trouble You Might Try John Randolph's Way.

The boiling of an egg seems a simple matter, but many a breakfast has been spoiled and many a temper rased by the cook's failing to observe the precise number of minutes the process should occupy.

That very original man, John Randolph, is said to have invented a method of getting his eggs cooked exactly to his taste that worked perfectly. As is the case in many country homes in the south, the kitchen was in a separate building at some distance from the house, and servants were plenty.

When the "sage of Roanoke" took his seat at the breakfast table there was a line of servants from the dining room to the kitchen. Mrs. Randolph, the mother of the statesman, held an open watch in her hand.

"In!" exclaimed Mr. Randolph, and the word "In" was passed from mouth to mouth until it reached the waiting cook, who dropped the eggs into the water. After the requisite number of seconds the holder of the timepiece signified that the cooking was done. "Out!" went forth the command in like manner, and the eggs were quickly removed.

The system required six or seven servants to cook one egg, but Randolph was accustomed to declare that this was the only way that he could get a cooked to suit him.—Youth's Companion.

AN INGENIOUS CLOCK.

Curious Automaton That Was Made in London a Century Ago.

One of the most wonderful time-keepers known to horologists was made in London, England, a hundred years ago and was sent by the president of the East India company as a gift to the emperor of China. The case was made in the form of a chariot, in which was seated the figure of a woman.

This figure was of pure ivory and gold, and the right hand rested upon a tiny clock, fastened to the side of the chariot. Portions of the wheels which kept track of the flight of time were hidden in the body of a tiny bird, which had seemingly just alighted upon the woman's finger.

There was a canopy above, so arranged as to conceal a silver bell. The bell was fitted with a little hammer, also of silver, which, although it did not appear to have any connection with the clock, struck the hours regularly and could be made to repeat by touching a diamond on the woman's bodice.

In the chariot, at the woman's feet, there was a golden figure of a bird, and above were two birds, apparently flying before the chariot. This beautiful ornament was made almost entirely of gold and was elaborately adorned with precious stones.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Never Can Happen Again.

The Mottogrin law which orders that any found valuable shall be placed where the owner can find it reminds of an anecdote told of Grimaldi's grandfather in 1568. One of the four crowns, on one of his visits to London, he carried with nearly $300 in gold and silver upon him. He found that a shoe had become unbuttoned and, taking from his pocket the bag, he placed it upon a neighboring post and then proceeded to adjust his buckle. Having afterwards to pay for a purchase, he missed his bag of gold and hurried back to the post where he had buckled his shoe. "Although more than three quarters of an hour had elapsed," there it remained, safe and untouched on the top of a post in the open street. That was in eighteenth century London. Could it happen now?—Louisville Chronicle.

A Curious Coincidence.

The story of a queer coincidence was told by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who, traveling upon the continent he visited a certain mountain inn, which was a winter, he learned, occupied only by two men. These men, imprisoned by a waste of snow and ice, had for all that period no communication with the world below. Here was a situation for a novelist! And the novelist accordingly began to let his imagination play about the possibilities of tragedy surrounding the two men on their mountain height. But the story was never written, for, happening to come upon a volume of Guy de Maupassant, which was new to him, he found therein, under the title of "L'Anberge," the very story he had meant to write.

The Herons of Andalusia.

Of all the birds he had studied, said W. Farren in a lecture, none showed conjugal affection in quite the same way as the brown backed herons of Andalusia, in Spain. Whenever the husband relieved his wife at the nest he invariably laid his neck over hers in a momentary embrace and then took up his position while the other bird flew away. The herons never omitted this affectionate salutation.—London Standard.

Cause and Effect.

"What a conceited little bump Bingleton is!" said Hawkes. "I wonder if he ever gets a glimpse of himself in the glass."

"I guess that's the trouble," said Jinks. "He probably uses a magnifying glass."—Harper's.

Not at Home.

Caller—Is your father at home? Little Daughter—What is your name, please? Caller—Just tell him it is his old friend Bill. Little Daughter—Then I guess he ain't at home. I heard him tell mamma if any bill came he wasn't at home.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by Pauli Drug Co.

My Doctor Said

"Try Cardui," writes Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I was in a very low state of health, and was not able to be up and tend to my duties. I did try Cardui, and soon began to feel better. I got able to be up and help do my housework. I continued to take the medicine, and now I am able to do my housework and to care for my children, and I feel as though I could never praise Cardui enough for the benefits I have received."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Cardui is successful, because it is made especially for women, and acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That explains the great success which it has had, during the past 50 years, in helping thousands of weak and ailing women back to health and happiness.

If you are a woman, feel tired, dull, and are nervous, cross and irritable, it's because you need a tonic. Why not try Cardui? Cardui builds, strengthens, restores, and acts in every way as a special, tonic remedy for women. Test it for yourself. Your druggist sells Cardui. Ask him.

IN THE REALM OF FASHION

For the Schoolgirl.

The chic suit with the long shawl collar is of a gray mixture material. Bands of dark red cloth outline the collar and cuffs and trim the hem of the skirt. Ornaments of gray braid are used to fasten the coat. A blouse of dark red crepe de chine embroidered with dull silver braid is designed to wear with this suit. The large black velvet hat adorned with loops of the same material is a becoming model to youthful faces.

GRAY CLOTH SUIT.

Velveteen and Corduroy.

Velveteen and corduroy are used to fashion many smart frocks for street wear.

Plain colors are more frequently used for the velveteen models. They are effectively trimmed with fur, metallic laces, Persian or tapestry embroidery.

Velveteen does not adapt itself so successfully to draping as do the softer velvets, so the skirts are usually plain or with plaited insets.

The boleros are jumper effects, with gimpes of lace or chiffon.

Corduroys in the soft finished qualities are extensively used.

Frocks and coat suits are developed of this material and seem to find a ready sale.

The two tone corduroys in brown and tan, blue and black or black and white are especially favored.

In plain colors dark blue, brown, black and burgundy are the shades more frequently used.

WRAPS FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

Chinchilla, Cheviot, Corduroy and Velvet Popular Materials.

A marked feature of the coats for children is the use of belts, says the Dry Goods Economist. These consist of patent leather, suede or silk sashes. Most of them are put on several inches below the waist line, somewhat in Russian style.

While many of the popular numbers are in Norfolk style, others are buttoned over the left shoulder and finished off with a belt. Other favored styles have the single revers and sailor collars or are in plain double breasted effect.

Corduroys and velvets continue to be among the best sellers of the season, particularly in navy, brown and black. In sizes from two to six years. In sizes one, two and three years white is favored.

Chinchillas are also selling freely in navy, brown and grays. Double faced cloths and boucles are being reordered in large quantities. In fact, the demand for many of the fancy woven novelties is so great that many manufacturers are behind in their deliveries, as the mills cannot supply them with the materials.

There has been considerable inquiry recently for coats trimmed with fur and many beautiful garments of this character are being shown.

Red chevrons trimmed with Hudson seal, pale blue broadcloth with squirrel white broadcloth with ermine and brown corduroy with skunk are among the popular combinations that are seen in the market.

A few coats made entirely of fur are being shown. Some of white coney, natural and dyed squirrel and mole-skin; also novelty coats of colored plushes in navy, golden brown and taupe.

Imitation fur is being used with excellent effect, and plush is meeting with favor.

Charmeuse Frocks.

Charmeuse is a favorite material for the afternoon frock. A charming model of navy blue was trimmed with corded gray silk. Another model of taupe colored charmeuse had trimmings of king's blue.

NEW TALES THAT ARE TOLD

Could Not Locate Him.

Richard Harding Davis praised at a dinner in Philadelphia the modern girl's love of sports.

"And how beautiful her open air life has made her," said Mr. Davis. "I wish I could show you some of the primitive statuettes in the British museum—man's very first statuettes—for there you would see how the modern girl has improved upon her prehistoric sister. The prehistoric girl, these stat-uettes show, was all hips—hips like a hoghead and shoulders and arms as weak and narrow as a little child's.

"I hate to see the modern girl, though, neglect her mind in the cultivation of her body. Once, at a tea in Rittenhouse square, Tennyson was being discussed and I turned to a tall girl of singular beauty and said:

"Do you like the 'Passing of Arthur'?"

"Arthur, Arthur?" she mused. "I'm sure he isn't a Pennsylvania man. Where is he playing, Yale or Harvard?"—Detroit Free Press.

Grim Virtue.

Mayor Woodruff of Peoria was sympathizing with a reformed character who, as soon as his reformation became known, was harassed by a band of old creditors.

"One calls for two," said Mayor Woodruff, with a smile. "Our friend must not only reform himself. He must now pitch in and earn a lot of money for his old creditors as well."

"It's like the Persian dictum on punctuality:

"Be punctual, and, inasmuch as none are punctual, learn to be patient also."

WHEN THE LAUGH WAS ON ROOSEVELT.

The Colonel Learned How He Was Regarded as an Author.

While the physicians were with Colonel Roosevelt in Chicago just after he was shot Dr. Golden told the colonel that he was one of his favorite authors.

"Which book do you like best?" the colonel asked.

"'African Game Trails,'" replied the doctor.

"And what part of that book do you like best?" the colonel went on.

"The illustrations," the doctor replied promptly, and Colonel Roosevelt had to admit for once the laugh was on him.

Adams' Wit.

Professor Adams of Cambridge university, England, who discovered the planet Neptune, was a distinguished proof that a man may have his head among the clouds and still keep a ready wit for mundane occasions.

At a dinner of the Philosophical society one of the company was concluding an after dinner speech about the activities of the society for the last year. He pointed to the book of the proceedings lying on the table near him, adding:

"But of all the proceedings this year gentlemen, you will agree with me that one of the best is this (waving his hand at the assembled diners) philosophical proceeding."

"Illustrated with plates!" flashed out Professor Adams to his neighbor at table.—Cornhill Magazine.

A Bomerang.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, the president of the University of Virginia, tells this story, illustrating the importance of being careful in criticism:

"I knew of a certain instructor in rhetoric who always impressed upon his students the necessity of clarity in what they wrote. A young man brought on one occasion a very carefully prepared essay.

"A good piece of work," said the instructor; "but, Mr. Smith, you should remember to write every sentence so that the most ignorant person can understand every word you put down."

"The young man looked worried and asked anxiously:

"What part of my essay was not clear to you, professor?"—Popular Magazine.

Definition of a Friend.

The first person who comes in when the whole world has gone out.

A band of credit on which we can draw supplies of confidence, counsel sympathy, help and love.

One who combines for you alike the pleasures and benefits of society and solitude.

A jewel whose luster the strong acids of poverty and misfortune cannot dim.

One who multiplies joys, divides griefs, and whose honesty is inviolable.

One who loves the truth and you, and will tell the truth in spite of you.

The Triple Alliance of the three great powers, Love, Sympathy and Help.

A watch which beats true for all time, and never "runs down."

A permanent fortification when one's affairs are in a state of siege.

One who to himself is true, and therefore must be so to you.

A balancing pole to him who walks across to tight-rope of life.

The link in life's long chain that bears the greatest strain.

A harbor of refuge from the stormy waves of adversity.

One who considers my need before my deservings.

The jewel that shines brightest in the darkness.

A stimulant to the nobler side of our nature.

A volume of sympathy bound in cloth.

A diamond in the ring of acquaintance.

A star of hope in the cloud of adversity.

Only A Fire Hero.

Just Like Her.

A man down in North Carolina lived with his wife for seven years, and during that time he came to have a very healthy regard for her physical superiority. After meekly submitting to all kicking and cuffing that he could stand he left home and took up his residence at the home of a farmer about seven miles distance.

One day he was working in the field, when his employer brought him the message that some one wanted to speak to him over the telephone, presumably his wife. He didn't disobey the authority of the woman, even at a distance, and he hurried to answer the call.

He had no experience with the telephone, and it was with wonder and hesitation that he picked up the receiver. About that time lightning struck the line and the shock threw him to the floor.

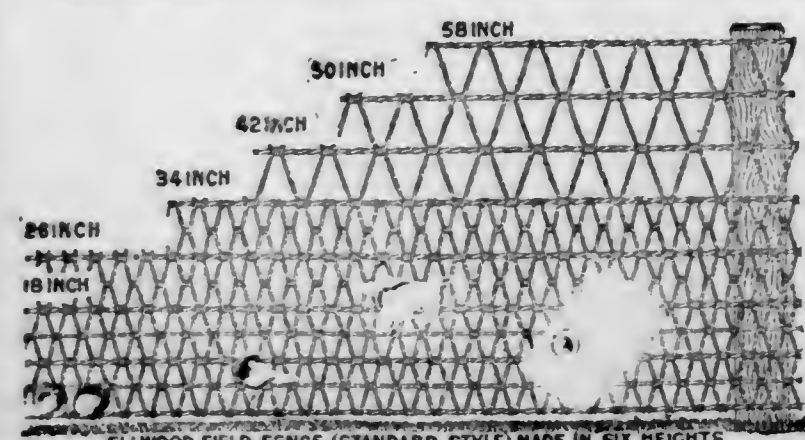

Rising from the floor with a look of amazement, and with a dubious look at the instrument, he said softly: "I'll be dog-goned if it wasn't her."

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by Paul Drug Co.
